

Asiana Airlines Begins Danang Flights

Thursday, 15 December 2011 02:29 - Last Updated Thursday, 15 December 2011 03:06

By Lang Thang.

From 14Dec2011, Asiana Airlines began weekly flights between Seoul Incheon Airport (South Korea) and Danang International Airport (Vietnam), announced the airlines spokesperson. The aircrafts for these flights are Airbus 321-200 with 177 seats. There is huge demand for air travel between South Korea and Vietnam and Asiana Airlines has flights between major cities of the two countries: Incheon - Ho Chi Minh City (14 flights per week), Incheon - Hanoi (7 flights per week), Busan - Ho Chi Minh City (7 flights per week), Busan - Hanoi (7 flights per week), Incheon - Danang (1 flight per week).

Danang is the biggest city in the Central Region of Vietnam. The city is known for its deep-water sea ports, the industrial parks and the fine sand beaches that stretch for over 40 kilometers. Danang is also the base for exploring other tourist attractions in the Central Region of Vietnam.